Praying to God in times of need is not enough. He desires us to have an intimate relationship with Him. We are near and dear to His heart, and He longs to have our attention. His Word, the Bible, is filled with treasures. He has treasures galore for His children. He simply wants us to tap into them. God does not want us to think of Him as a hard task master. He is the Giver of all life; the Creator of a splendid universe; the Person Who birthed love, feelings and romance; the One Who instituted the family. Contrary to popular belief, He has nothing to do with religion as the world knows it. The Holy Spirit, the third Person in the Trinity, is not given enough credence or honor, yet He was just as essential in planning the creation of the world as were the Father and the Son. Christ gave the Spirit to us as a gift when He left this earth for heaven. He is omniscient and omnipresent. He sees us no matter where we are. He knows our thoughts. He is a Helper, a Teacher, a Confidant, a Friend, a soul-mate, a Lover and so much more. He gives us divine favor (grace) and extends boundless mercy when we deserve just the opposite. He is wisdom and patience personified. He is Good and perfect. He delights our souls. He enlarges our coasts. He supplies us with supernatural peace and joy and with energy that is indescribable even in old age...
