Problems in Mathematical Statistics

By Ivchenko G.I., Medvedev Yu.I., Chistyakov A.V.; Troshneva, Elena, (trad.)

Editorial Mir Publishers Moscow, 1991. soft. Book Condition: New. Problems in Mathematical Statistics is a continuation of Mathematical Statistics by G. Ivchenko and Yu. Medvedev. The problem book supplements the theoretical course, covers the basic topics in modern statistical theory and can be used for practice and laboratory works (including computer simulation of random variables for further statistical interpretation). Some of the problems are more difficult and require a creative individual effort. Detailed solutions are given to non-standard problems. Each chapter contains the necessary theoretical material and formulas. Statistical tables will help to obtain numerical results. The book will be useful to students at technical colleges and universities, to post-graduate students and engineers applying probabilistic and statistical methods.
