Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Green Pleasure and Grey Grief In vain men tell us time can alter Old loves or make old memories falter, That with the old year, the old year s life closes. The old dew still falls on the old sweet flowers, The old sun revives the new-fledged hours, The old summer rears the new-born roses. Swinburne. A Dying sunset, a sloping lawn, a rushing, tumbling stream, a clump of giant firs to the right, a suspicion of odorous garden sweets from the left, two forms in God s own likeness, and a roaring raging ocean down below - all seemed blended into one artistic whole, calm, almost motionless, save for the quarrelling of the turbulent river and the faint dashing of the waves against the rocks upon the barren coast. Slowly the early summer sun is setting. Pale, with sad regret, he quits the lovely earth, and prepares to lay down his arms before night s queen. Already Dian s crescent marks the sky - faint yet, because so far away, but marching ever nearer, nearer, glad with the certainty of victory assured; the happy wind, that all day long has rioted in bower and pleasaunce faire has gone to rest; a languorous stillness lies on all around; the air is heavy with the breath of drowsy flowers. Ah, this dear England! says a young sweet voice, in a tone of quick delight. Though I have only known it for a little week, still it seems to me that it, and no other land, means home!
