Editorial Desclée de Brouwer, 2004. soft. Book Condition: New. Un conocido biblista francés, el llorado Paul Beauchamp, señalaba que el Deuteronomio puede compararse al dedo pulgar de la mano, ya que su relación con los cuatro primeros libros de la Biblia es similar a la que el pulgar posee con los cuatro restantes dedos. El Deuteronomio cierra el Pentateuco, reflexiona sobre la tradición anterior y, sobre todo, ofrece una síntesis teológica de enorme importancia. Este nuevo libro de la BTC ofrece reflexiones teológicas sobre algunos aspectos presentes en Dt 1-11. La mayor parte de él, los seis primeros capítulos, giran en torno a estos temas: el poder de Dios, la gloria de Yahveh, el sentido del mediador profético, la elección y la justificación de Israel. El último capítulo pretende ofrecer, desde la óptica del Deuteronomio, claves de lectura de algunos temas del Nuevo Testamento: el Reino de Dios, la justificación, los mediadores. Enrique Sanz Giménez-Rico es profesor de Sagrada Escritura en la Universidad Pontificia Comillas (Madrid). Su interés por la teología del Antiguo Testamento ha quedado reflejado en la elaboración de su tesis doctoral, publicada en 2002 con el título Cercanía del Dios distante, que presenta algunos rasgos característicos de Dios según el libro del Éxodo. Posteriormente ha continuado estudiando la imagen de Dios en el Pentateuco y ha centrado su investigación en el libro del Deuteronomio. Es además director de la revista de teología pastoral Sal Terrae, en la que también ha publicado diversos artículos sobre diferentes temas bíblicos.
